America's Youngest Outcasts has been a collaborative effort among many partners. We express our deepest appreciation to everyone involved.

We are grateful to our many colleagues who helped us prepare this report, particularly Laura Gillis, Joan Mullen, Jeff Olivet, and Kristen Paquette of the Center for Social Innovation. We also appreciate the guidance offered by our colleagues at Horizons for Homeless Children, the National Alliance to End Homelessness, and the National Health Care for the Homeless Council. Thank you to Lori Grange and her colleagues at Pew Charitable Trust, who shared their time and expertise with us. Thank you also to Sarah Burd-Sharps at American Human Development for her help in the early days of this endeavor. Many others contributed to the conceptualization, research, writing, and editing of this report, particularly Tamar Abrams, Susan Butler, Catherine Fitzgerald, Stephanie Geller, Carol Lamont, Derri Shtasel, Rosa Smith, and Thinh Tran. Their contributions have been invaluable and much appreciated. We especially want to thank Michael Holzman for his hard work and dedication through many long hours preparing the state reports.

We are very grateful to Jeremy Rosen of the National Policy and Action Council on Homelessness for his comments and suggestions about the Report Card, particularly his extensive contributions to the Policy section.

We extend our deep appreciation also to those who supported this project financially, particularly the Marie C. and Joseph C. Wilson Foundation, The Fassino Foundation, and the many individuals who contributed to the project.

Special thanks to Fassino/Design for making our dense pages come to life. With only a few exceptions, the photographs that appear on these pages were taken by John Soares, whose genial nature made it easy to smile for the camera.

Many of the families and children who appear in the photographs on these pages participated because they want to end homelessness. We are humbled by their strength and thankful for their involvement.

Our Board of Directors provided insight and support throughout this project. As always, we are thankful for their heartfelt commitment, passion, and hard work.

This report would not have been made possible without the dedication and hard work of the National Center on Family Homelessness' staff: Ellen Bassuk, Rosenie Clervil, Debra Dutcher, Vincent Fusaro, Megan Grandin, Kathleen Guarino, Latease Guilderson, Christina Jordan, Maria Sanchez-Lopez, Melodie Peet, Phoebe Soares, Wendy Vaulton, and Katherine Volk. We also especially thank John Kellogg for his tireless efforts on our behalf.
